The remediation system was commissioned and is now operational. All works were completed to the satisfaction of the consultancy and their ultimate client.

A global environmental and engineering consultancy manages soil and groundwater remediation programmes for several multi-national clients. RemTech provides support services to the consultancy across the UK and EU to enable them to deliver a comprehensive service and provide additional capacity as and when required. Recent support has been given in France and Poland as well as the UK.

Our consultancy client had an operating remedial system in France that required reconfiguration and ongoing operation and maintenance support.
